

in this issue >>>

A message of appreciation

Week 2 – At a glance

Requirements for land

What do you envision for an indoor space?

Soft services...

Issue
TWO

A weekly summation of the Gathering Place workshops

The Gathering Gazette

current topics >>>

A message of appreciation

Da Daghay Development Corporation thanks every one of you for spending your evening with us. We are honoured to be a part of this visioning and realization of a crucial part of the future of the Ta'an Kwäch'än nation.

This past week saw many innovative and creative ideas for inclusion into the Gathering Place / Administrative Building. Ideas centered around physical structures, as well as additional services.

The following pages capture this creativity, and we look forward to incorporating them all into the vision.

As promised, the second edition of this newsletter will be circulated to everyone, with hard copies provided at the next meeting.

To get in touch anytime, contact:

Ben Asquith, CEO

867.332.7898

Week 2 - At a glance

"The strength of a Nation derives from the integrity of the home." Confucius

Our week 2 event on March 13 had 60 people sitting down to brainstorm and articulate what is needed to make this Gathering Place, real.

A pasta dinner was served at 5:00pm, following a welcome Da Daghay Development Corporation, Ben Asquith, and a prayer by Elder Julia Broeren.

Jack (Kobayahsi Zedda) and his team presented some fun, cartoon style drawings of the citizens and a presentation of the last meeting. Everyone who attended, came into the discussion, positive and eager, with no hesitation to dive right into conversation and providing insightful feedback to the questions posed.

As we proceeded through the topic questions as a group, Ben opened the floor to new topics, to not limit our ideas. Everyone seemed more comfortable voicing their thoughts in an open forum this time, and discussions between citizens were respectful and provided many new perspectives. There was no hesitation to reach for the stars when it came to sharing ideas for the new facility. While there were concerns about being realistic and practical in the wishes and requests, Ben quickly reassured everyone, to not limit themselves as nearly anything is possible.

A building to reflect our culture, our heritage, our connection to the land, and the connections of our people.

The meeting came to an end with laughter, and everyone ending the conversation in agreement, excited for the next steps.

So what are the next steps? Week 3 promises to be even more fun! The next workshop will be developing decision criteria for selecting a land parcel, or parcels, for the Gathering Place. Inspiring videos, photographs, and engaging discussions will be enjoyed by all. As always, many thanks to you all for sharing your evenings with us. We all look very forward to the coming events!

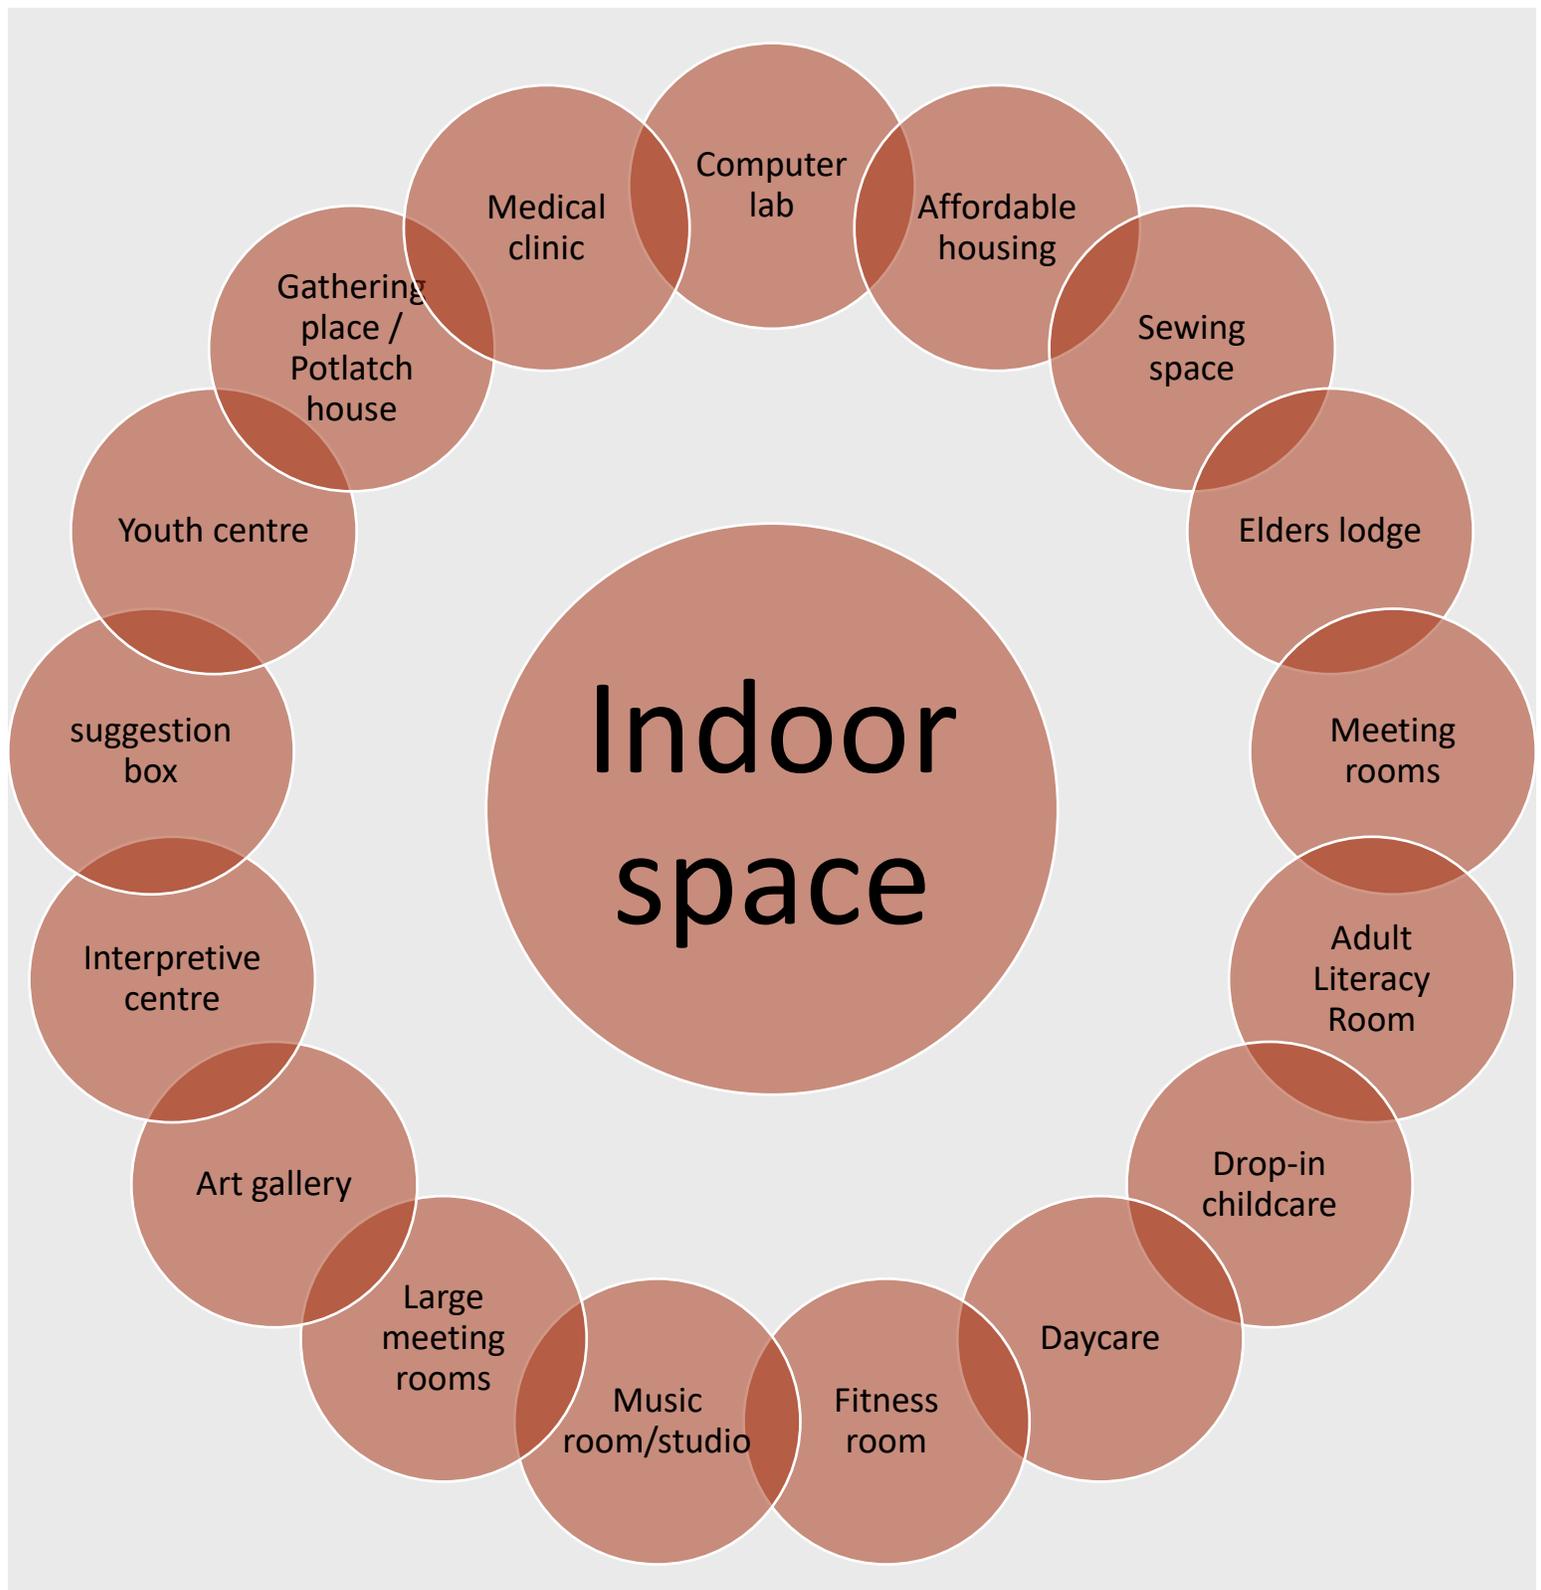

Through the diversity of conversation, requests and requirements for the appropriate site, or series of sites, were established in the dreaming of what the final place wants to look like.

What do you envision for an indoor space?

The needs of the Ta'an Kwäch'an Council, the Government, and its citizens, are growing and evolving. Below is the start of wish list for meeting those needs...

Soft Services....

Not everything in the wish lists were physical structures, but more wishes for future services and areas of support for the Ta'an Kwäch 'än people.

Next workshop >>>

March 20, 2019

What does the land need to offer?

Come back to the Gold Rush Inn, enjoy more food, and be a part of determining what the Gathering Place / Administration Building needs for a building site.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

PHOTO COMPETITION

We want your photos, your perspectives of the land on which you live, your families, and anything else that inspires you.

Submit your photos, high resolution or print, and a caption for the photo, and you will have your photographs displayed in the new Gathering Place.

Don't see your voice reflected here?

Want to get involved but can't attend?

Please let us know!

Contact:

Ben Asquith, CEO

Da Daghay Development Corporation

867.332.7898

dadaghay@northwestel.net